FRANCE BORDEAUX

Winegrowing in Bordeaux can be traced back to 379 CE and the Latin poet Ausonius (namesake of the famed Château Ausone), who himself tended a vineyard. When the Dutch drained the marshy Médoc in the 17th century, it marked the beginning of Bordeaux's majestic châteaux and legendary wines.

did you know?

Bordeaux produces more AC wine than any other region in France. Classified-growth wines from the heart of Bordeaux fetch some of the wine world's highest prices, while top wines from satellite appellations (including Listrac and Lussac) offer fantastic value.

key grapes

Red blends based primarily on Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot and Cabernet Franc.

White blends primarily of Sauvignon Blanc and Semillon.
